

TECHNICAL INFO

OCTANE BOOSTER

Using an octane booster is particularly essential on Turbo engines. If the fuel you are using has not the right octane level, the knock sensor on your car will immediately detect it and put your car performance in the safe mode lowering your engine output to prevent any damage. Using an octane booster when refueling will secure the required octane level letting you enjoy the full performance of your engine.